The award was presented by Reeve Harry Davis in recognition of Wallace's services to the township which include, founding the Neighbourhood Watch Program, working with the Scouts, the Library Committee and numerous other projects. ## Survey shows need for seniors' housing

The Village of Minden may soon be the sight of a new government financed seniors' apartment complex.

Ed Pergolas, chairman of the Staanworth Non-Profit Housing Corporation told the November 25 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden council that a need for seniors' housing has been proven - the the biggest stumbling block in applying for government assistance - and that Minden has "an excellent chance" of getting the building.

Pergolas said the complex would contain between 25 and 35 apartments and would be built in 1988.

Like the Staanworth Court apartments near the Minden Arena, the proposed complex would be financed with the assistance of the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the Ontario Housing Corporation.

A survey carried out over the summer by the OHC - the results were just recently tabulated - is proof of the need for seniors' apartments in Minden, Pergolas told the council meeting.

The final decision on whether the apartments will be built is to be made by the two government bodies by July 1, 1987.

Pergolas said that between now and that date the Staanworth Housing Corporation will have to complete its application for assistance. This, he explained, will include finding a choice of sites, selecting an architect, and requesting bids on the project from construction companies.

If the application is accepted, the government will guarantee the Staanworth Housing Corporation's mortgage on the complex and contribute funds to lower the interest rate on the mortgage. Pergolas said that would be the extent of the government's assistance.

CHACE expands daycare service

Minden will soon have its first licenced daycare centre.

CHACE Place chairman Jennifer Ketner was given a permit at the November 25 Anson, Hindon and Minden council meeting to start renovating a building on Prince Street to meet government requirements for public daycare centres.

Money to pay for the CHACE project is going to come from the provincial Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Though CHACE already runs one private daycare facility in Minden, it is unable to meet the demand, Ketner said in an interview. The present centre is run by two staff members and has a capacity of 10 children - and that includes those of the staff.

The new facility, scheduled for completion about the end of February, will have a capacity of approximately 25 children; or 15 toddlers and 10 infants. "It all depends on government regulations," Ketner explained. "But we're going to see if we can get those numbers increased."

Besides full daycare,

CHACE organizers are also hoping to provide care at the new centre for school age children between the time they finish classes and the time their parents come home from work. As well, said Ketner, they are looking into the possibility of offering nursery school activities for some children.

Operating under a different government scheme, the present private home daycare centre has been taking in children for the past month. One of a series of such centres - Ketner says CHACE has been having trouble finding staff willing to use their homes - it is smaller and more informal than the new facility. The drawback to private daycare is that the centres must be small and have to be operated from a home. By leasing a building and designing it specifically as a daycare facility, CHACE organizers will avoid the restrictions placed on private home daycare, Ketner said.

Though most of the cost of the renovations on the new centre will be covered by the government grant, CHACE organizers are counting on some volunteer labour.

McCausland well following heart transplant

The call that Gooderham resident Bob McCausland has been waiting for finally came.

In the early hours of Saturday, around 2 a.m., the bedside phone in the McCausland home jangled Bob and his wife Joan out of a deep sleep. The voice at the other end was urgent.

The call was from a doctor at Toronto General Hospital advising them that a heart matching Bob's requirements had become available and to prepare for transfer to the hospital for the operation.

Joan McCausland took the call on Saturday morning. Speaking to The Times Tuesday, she described the scene in the home as being hectic in those moments after the call was received. In the confusion, the name of the doctor who called was lost, however, she was informed that arrangements would be made to transfer Bob to Toronto and they would be calling back in about 15 minutes.

As reported in the November 5 edition of The Times, Bob McCausland, Reeve of Glamorgan Township, received word this summer that his heart had suffered severe damage as a result of a number of heart attacks. His only hope of living a normal life span was to replace the damaged organ.

While Bob had been able to continue with a relatively normal routine since receiving the word from the doctors, he was acutely conscious of the need to be near a telephone, to be ready to go at a moment's notice. Except for an initial state of disbelief on being told a heart transplant was the only recourse, Bob has faced the prospect of the operation with a positive outlook. According to his wife, that attitude continued Saturday as well. "He was in really good spirits," she commented as the family hurried around making last minute arrangements.

Fifteen minutes after the first phone call came, the Toronto Hospital was back on the line again. Could Joan drive him to Toronto? How long would that take? What about the helicopter? Weather complications grounded it in Toronto. What about going to Peterborough and taking a flight from there? That proposal appeared to consume more time than a straight drive to Toronto.

In the end, it was decided to rely on ground transportation and the ambulance service in Haliburton was called. They had been warned about the special need of Bob and they were ready to act. An ambulance and attendants arrived at the McCausland home and about 3 a.m. he was on his way to Toronto.

Bob was ready for the trip and as he walked to the waiting vehicle, he started to climb into the passenger seat. However, he was the

Police lay fraud charges

Charges of fraud have been laid by the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations against Joseph M. Cannon, sole proprietor of JMC Builders, Highway 35, Minden, after three consumers complained they paid him a total of more than $70,000 for cottages they did not receive.

Investigators from both the Minden OPP and the consumer ministry heard that the three consumers signed contracts with JMC Builders for Viceroy cottages but when the cottages were not delivered as promised, they became concerned.

In each instance, the complainant apparently signed a contract with Joseph Cannon and JMC Builders, an authorized dealer of Viceroy Homes Ltd., Toronto, to purchase a cottage. An initial deposit was given when the contract was signed.

Prior to delivery of the cottages, the consumers were required to pay at least one third of the total cost to JMC Builders. One consumer apparently paid the one third while the others paid the entire cost of the cottages.

Cannon allegedly did not order the cottages from Viceroy Homes Ltd., or pass the funds received from the consumers along to Viceroy.

Charge dismissed

A charge of failing to yield from a private drive, laid against Al Smith of West Guilford was withdrawn when the man appeared in court Tuesday in Minden.

The charge was laid after the school bus the man was driving was in collision with a car driven by Danny Griffin, 22, of Stanhope Township. The mishap patient now and was soon in the back. The ambulance, assisted by a police escort through the streets of Toronto, made one of the fastest trips from the Highlands to Toronto General Hospital.

The matching heart had been removed from an unidentified 18 year old man in Hamilton and was transferred to the Toronto hospital. There, under the careful guidance of Dr. Tyrone David, the transplant team at Toronto General Hospital completed the operation in about three hours. At one o'clock Saturday afternoon, Bob was wheeled out of the operating room and was on the road to recovery.

That process has started already, according to Joan McCausland. She was at his bedside following the operation and spoke briefly with him on Sunday. On Monday she reports, he sat up for a short time, and was taking some clear broth.

Joan reports that he is breathing on his own and seems to be mending well. But what she likes to see the best however, is the steady, strong even beat of the new heart as it is registered on the monitor in his room. "It's beautiful to see," she commented, "Just great." She noted that with the old heart, the monitor would show an erratic response as it attempted to follow his damaged heart.

"Of course," Joan comments, "He does have the constitution of a horse."

Joan and their relatives in the Gooderham area have been inundated with calls from friends, neighbours and relatives seeking news about Bob's condition and passing on their good wishes. "It's nice to know that so many people care," she commented.

The best news yet is that doctors now think that Bob could be home for Christmas. "What a Christmas present that would be," she said Tuesday. "We couldn't ask for anything better than that...the gift of life."

Glamorgan Reeve and heart recipient Bob McCausland hopes to be home for Christmas.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station at Dorset was compiled by Environment Canada. There were three precipitation events during this past week.

- November 23, 4 mm of rain, with a pH of 4.0, from West Virginia, Ohio, southern and central Ontario.

- November 24, one cm of mixed rain and snow, pH 4.5, from Lake Superior, northern Michigan and Lake Huron.

- November 26, 6 mm of rain, pH 4.5, Indiana, Ohio, southern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

A fresh beginning

Our individual health is something we take for granted until it is taken away from us. The majority enjoy a robust life for most of our turn on this orb.

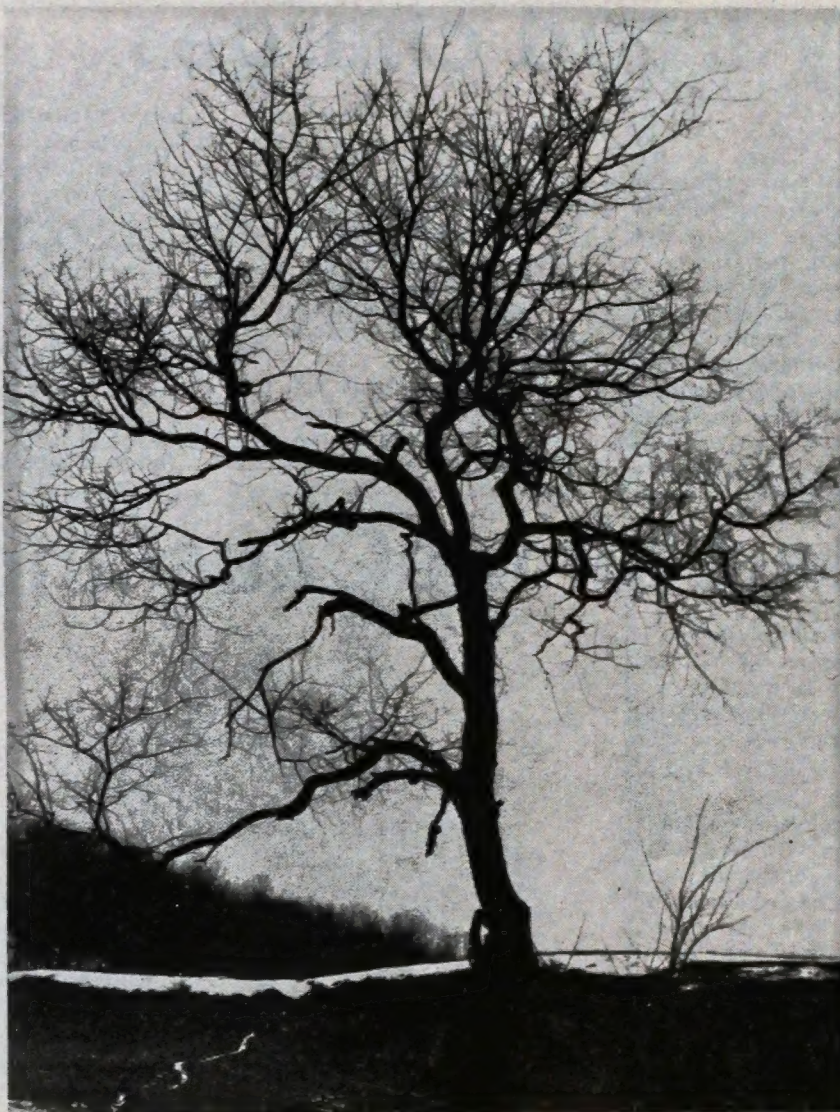

That is perhaps why individuals show such strong emotional reactions when stripped of good health. Anger, frustration, depression are just some of the feelings that well up in an individual.

While these feelings are understandable, it is also worth remembering that we live in an area of the world with the most complete health protection and support infrastructure in the world. It may not have been a one hundred percent sure thing that Glamorgan resident Bob McCausland's need for a replacement heart could have been met, but when it was located, we knew the skills and expertise to ensure the successful transplant operation would be there when needed, and they were.

The "miracle" of the successful heart transplant operation provides testimony to the amazing knowledge at our disposal. It also brings to mind the need for more individuals to offer their organs for donation by signing the necessary documents (including the release on the back of the Ontario driver's licence) to ensure there will never be a lengthy delay in locating organs for transplant.

And finally, we can take a page from Bob McCausland's book for our own lives. Though faced with the realities of a serious medical condition, he refused to allow the news to pull him down. In doing so, he not only improved his own chances, but raised the spirits of those around him.

We wish him a speedy and full recovery.

Wintry silhouette.

Counting the corpses

- by Arthur Black -

Did you watch any TV two Sundays ago? I had the darnedest time trying to make up my mind which channel to stay with. I was definitely in the mood for a little mindless entertainment but there was so much to choose from! The Cleveland Browns were hammering the Los Angeles Rams on channel two. Over on channel five there was a CFL final between ... I forget who, but both teams were big and ugly and didn't seem to like each other much. I had professional wrestling on channel 11 and the Provincial Amateur Boxing Championships on cable.

Then there were the movies! Just listen to some of the titles I had to juggle: A Fistful of Dynamite - Mexican bandito hooks up with an Irish munitions expert to liberate his people. The Savages - a sadistic hunter pursues an innocent man through the desert. A Gun In The House - a young woman kills an intruder and is prosecuted for murder...

I mean, this was the Sabbath, right? You wanna watch something extra - reverential on the Sabbath, for crying out loud.

In the end I decided to watch Sudden Impact. It's one of those famous 'Dirty Harry' movies. Clint Eastwood (he of the monosyllabic, twitching jaw muscle School of Fine Acting) plays Dirty Harry Callaghan, an incorruptible West Coast cop who's just plumb fed up with bureaucratic red tape, bumbling, ineffectual superiors and a namby-pamby, criminal-coddling court system that make his job so difficult, some days it's all he can do to unholster the hand-held cannon he keeps under his jacket and blow the bad guys away.

Nevertheless, Dirty Harry does. Blow people away, I mean - a lot. He also strangles them, stabs them, runs over them in cars, throws them out windows without benefit of safety net, drops them into deep bodies of water and subdivides them into eensy-weensy particles with a variety of tactical explosive devices.

All of this happens over an hour and a half of a Sunday evening, you understand - not counting time out for advertisers bent on selling us toothpaste, Japanese compacts and underarm roll-on deodorant. I tried to keep track of the number of corpses straight-shooting Harry left strewn in his wake between commercials and I got up to 24 with seven probables. Mind you, I had to go to the bathroom once or twice, so I might have missed a few.

There was one offering listed in the TV Guide that I didn't even consider watching. It was something called He Shoots, He Scores on the CBC channel. Now, I kind of wish I'd given Dirty Harry a pass and watched He Shoots, He Scores, because it's been in the news this week.

My newspaper tells me that the show, as broadcast on Sunday, had been censored a bit. Why? Because the CBC had heard from outraged viewers of a previous episode. "About 30 to 35 complaints" said a Corporation spokesman, "about nudity, particularly breasts."

Particularly breasts?

It's probably perverse of me, but breasts - singly or in pairs - have been among the least offensive earthly manifestations I've run up against during my hop-skip-and-jump through life. Does it not strike you as passing odd that football mayhem, boxing bouts, wrestling matches and movies about everything from TNT assassins to sadistic hunters to psychopathic cops are welcomed into our living rooms on a Sunday evening with nary a murmur but the sight of naked human milk glands on the selfsame TV screen is enough to move 30 to 35 Canadians to look up the number of the CBC, dial it, and lodge a formal complaint?

You want to talk obscenities? What about a teenage quarterback getting his tibia snapped when a 260 pound linebacker blind-

Editor:

On October 8th, 1986, Local 1960 sent a letter to County Council, requesting a public apology regarding the article printed in The Times - "Dysart deputy alleges road worker drunk".

This was a request for Council to ask your newspaper to apologize to the County Road Workers for the way this article was written; as you had to turn many pages to find out that it was not County Employees that the BOLD headlines indicated.

I know this situation was explained to you by Mr. Gary McKnight, Clerk-Treasurer and I personally, as Secretary for the County of Haliburton, Road Employees, Local 1960, explained to your reporter, Mr. John Greenwood, exactly what we wanted printed to clarify this situation.

Today, November 26th, the writer of the article on the front page "Committee Finds No Basis For Charges", ends by stating: QUOTE - The County employees asked for an apology from the Council to be published in this newspaper. UNQUOTE.

The Council does not owe Local 1960 an apology of any kind, your newspaper does!

This has gone on long enough. It would only take a few words, printed properly, to end all of this.

I hope this will soon be remedied!

Principal values the haven Wilberforce provides for his students

The road to Wilberforce is not an easy one, no matter which route you take. Nestled in amongst the forests and worn granite hills of northeast Monmouth Township, the little village is a long way from most larger centres - in fact, it's rather isolated.

But that's the way Charles Hughes likes it.

Twenty-five years ago Hughes came to Haliburton County to teach, first at the Harcourt school and then, when that closed in the late 60's, at Wilberforce. He's the principal at the Wilberforce school now and his experience has taught him that in some ways, isolation can be a good thing for a community and its school.

Tall and bearded, Hughes is a man with high principles and strong opinions. "I shudder at the thought of trying to bring up a family or teach a class in the city," he says. "Out here in the country we're removed from many of the problems facing our society today."

Specifically, Hughes is referring to the problems of marriage breakdown and drugs, problems that are especially prevalent in urban areas.

He goes on: "My students in Wilberforce miss most of the more undesirable influences - and that's a good miss. Because families here are generally tighter and distances greater, peer pressure is less. Kids here have more to occupy themselves and there's none of this hanging around the plaza that you get so often in places like Mississauga and Etobicoke."

A country life for children is healthiest in the broadest sense of the word, he says.

Hughes admits that his beliefs are determined to a large extent, by his own experience. Having been brought up on a farm near Peterborough, he also argues that he knows the value of hard work and discipline in the life of a child.

With six sons of his own, he practices what he preaches. "My family is very important to me and I make sure we do a lot together," Hughes says. Activities involving his sons include everything from church work (Hughes believes in the importance of religion) and growing all the family vegetables in the garden to "memorizing reams of poetry."

The Wilberforce school goes from kindergarten to grade four and has a healthy enrolment of about 60 students. While other community schools are closing because of dwindling education budgets and declining enrolment, Wilberforce is in a good position. "The number of students here this year is up over last year and we expect it to go up again next year," says Hughes.

Including the principal (he teaches about 80 percent of his time), there are three full time teachers and one part time. Classes tend to be small and, says Hughes, "It's not uncommon to have two grades in the same room."

An old and pleasing building

Unlike most schools, the one at Wilberforce is an old and pleasing building. Its bricks have been painted white, it has a peaked roof and on the inside, sunlight streams through large windows into the hallways and classrooms. Bulletin boards and walls are covered with gaily coloured paintings by the students.

"On the first day of school, there are maybe three or four faces I don't know," Hughes says. "On the second day I know everybody."

It appears to be a healthy, happy school and that's something Hughes would heartily affirm.

"It's a close school because we all know each other," he explains. "My own feeling is that part of closeness stems from the fact that most of the students here are from stable

But Wilberforce isn't completely immune to the problems of big city life. "When I first came here, single parent kids were rare," says Hughes. "But we're starting to get them now. This deterioration of the family - here, I'm showing my values - has its effects on the kids and on the schools they go to."

Hughes went to a one-room school when he was growing up and though he doesn't believe they should be brought back, he does believe that many of the methods used by his teachers could still bear scrutiny. Especially the structure and discipline that was valued so much in earlier years.

Hughes is against many of the changes in curriculum brought about by the gurus at the Ministry of Education. Recently, teachers in Ontario have been encouraged to adopt an approach to teaching that centres on the child and on play. Adherents of the method believe that children will learn better if they have fun while they do it. In practice, this means making learning into a game.

Need more structure

"But I know that if I had been taught in this way when I was a child, I would not have survived," says Hughes. "A lot of kids need more structure when they learn. And I'm not at all sure that anyone can learn to read better stretched out on their belly on the floor than they could sitting up at a desk."

Again he admits that this might be a prejudice arising out of his own upbringing.

The new teaching method also downplays the importance of exams, something else Hughes is not sure he agrees with. Fortunately though, he says that "up to this point, the new method has been open and optional - teachers are encouraged to use it, but they don't have to." He worries though that the pressure from the ministry to become 'congruent' with the guidelines will grow.

Hughes also feels strongly about the recent trend toward consolidating schools. "In my opinion, Wilberforce school should go to a least grade six," he says. "It's a terrible waste of a child's time to spend as much as an hour on a bus every day. In fact, some children spend half as much time on the bus as they do in the classroom."

Older children, Hughes explains, can deal with the long bus trips - and everything else that going to school in a different area entails - much better than younger children can.

The senior elementary grades of the Wilberforce school were recently closed. Now the older children in the area go to school in Haliburton.

But Hughes has adopted a philosophical attitude toward recent changes in education. He realizes he and his community aren't complete secluded from the troubles affecting the rest of the world. As families break apart in other countries and in the cities, so they will break apart in Wilberforce.

Tight money policies in Toronto will also make themselves felt in his village, and Hughes has no doubt the school systems everywhere will suffer.

But he knows that at least his village has itself as protection against things that have gone wrong in Toronto and in Ottawa. No matter how anonymous and disintegrated the inhabitants of those cities become, the people in Hughes' village and at his school will know and understand one another as people in rather isolated country villages have always known and understood one another.

How about those long, lyrical close-up camera shots of Clint loving loading his .44 Magnum automatic with armour-piercing shells?

That's obscene. So's 80 percent of the Eleven O'Clock news, come to that ... but breasts?

Them is whence cometh the Life Force, bub. Back in pre-Enfalac, pre-Federicks of Hollywood days, breasts were just about as sacred a symbol of humanity as you could find.

Breasts should be venerated, not X-

Now we've got folks who want them banned on Sunday -- more than that, we've got a national broadcasting corporation all set to lie down and roll over on command. "The network will be monitoring future episodes (of He Shoots, He Scores) very carefully" the CBC spokesman said.

Well, I don't know. I haven't seen the series -- maybe it's a crock that deserves no more mercy than Dirty Harry grants crooks. But if so, I hope it gets dropped for better reasons than showing a naked breast or two.

And I'm sure glad I don't have to be a censor.

Running around with a pair of scissors looking for pictures of errant mammaries to snip is no job for a grownup.

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

This month our Chamber must give thoughtful consideration to our current marketing plan. Our major tourism promotion brochure is the summer guide. For the past three years our summer guide program has been intertwined very closely with COTA, The Central Ontario Travel Association.

In 1984, COTA signed a three year marketing program with ALCOM Marketing of Toronto. ALCOM would publish the large guide for COTA, that encompassed all of the travel regions, and it would also cooperate and help each region publish its own guide. ALCOM, in addition to the three year agreement with COTA, entered into a three year agreement with our Chamber to publish our regional guide. This agreement expires as well on March 31, 1987.

This month COTA has a draft marketing plan to be presented, the thrust of this marketing plan is to be "taking the focus off the guide program and eliminating the need for an all inclusive contract with the advertising agency." A further recommendation that future productions of a guide be on a year to year basis. COTA wishes to develop other aspects of a marketing strategy. This includes the continuance of COTA's watts line, a press release service that our Chamber could use to distribute news throughout Southern Ontario, media, seminars, continuance of the FAM tour, publishing of bus tours, publications, co-op newspapers, magazines and radio.

The decision of our Chamber really is twofold. First since our Chamber is a voting member of the COTA Board, we will have to decide within the next month whether or not to ratify the direction COTA wishes to go in removing the focus of the travel guide program to a more broader based approach to marketing Central Ontario.

The second question is that with limited funds available for marketing, consider COTA's lead in a more broad based approach to marketing our region. We also at this time have an opportunity to decide whether or not we wish COTA to continue the responsibility of publishing our summer guide or whether we would be better off assuming that responsibility ourselves, as we did in the past, prior to 1984.

Last week a motion was passed which asked the marketing committee to canvas those resort and accommodation members who are most directly affected by the summer guide program. The volunteers on the marketing committee will be calling each of these businesses and asking them 1) How they feel about the direction COTA is taking; 2) Whether or not they would like to see the Chamber take responsibility for publishing our summer guide; 3) whether or not they feel that this summer guide should be tendered for bids rather than an automatic renewal with ALCOM Marketing. This canvas will to a great extent determine the direction we will take at our next meeting in December.

in place because it was believed there was still a need for more geared-to-income housing in the area.

The needs survey just completed, is in fact the second such survey carried out by the OHC in this area since the construction of Staunworth Court. Pergolas said an earlier survey done in 1983 also proved a need for more housing. The application however, was not accepted that year because of government cutbacks.

At the beginning of 1986, Pergolas explained, the government asked for a new survey. He added that the application process has not been easy.

But he also said his corporation's chances of success this time around are particularly good. When the Staunworth Court application was accepted in 1983, the OHC and the CMHC set aside funds for 800 housing units in Ontario. Because the Staunworth Housing Corporation were so successful in letting the government know their need - their application was turned down initially - that number was increased to 822.

The Staunworth Court building contains 22 units.

Pergolas said that in 1987 the CMHC and OHC have budgeted for construction of 4,000 apartment units in Ontario.

Part of the reason the present application process has been so frustrating, Pergolas remarked, is that the OHC survey does not reflect the true need of the community. Many people in Haliburton County who would benefit from another seniors complex did not reply to the survey questionnaire because they were reluctant to give out personal financial information to government clerks in Toronto. This problem has been raised by Anson, Hindon and Minden council at a number of meetings.

Pergolas said in an interview that he believes the recent survey reflects only "about 25 per cent of the real need for housing."

Though it is common knowledge there is a shortage of geared to income family housing in the Minden area, the survey did not suggest a need. Pergolas explained that people who require the housing did not respond to the survey.

Street entertainers de light indoor crowd

"People are always asking us what a busker is. So I looked it up in the dictionary, which said: 'to busk: scratch in the sand, an act performed usually by chickens to rid themselves of vermin.'"

So quipped Michael Copely, one half of the Cambridge Buskers, at the opening of their concert, one of a series sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts, at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on Friday night. In fact, a busker is an itinerant entertainer, often a musician. They were common in nineteenth century England and most likely found - even to this day - playing for pennies at street corners and bus stops.

But it's a long time since the Cambridge Buskers played anywhere out of doors. To date, Copely and his partner, Dag Ingram, have six records and three cassettes out, all under the Deutsche Grammophon label. Friday night's performance marked the half-way point of their ninth North American tour and the Buskers are still at what is probably still the lower rung of a career that has already taken them around the world.

Ten years ago, Ingram and Copely were, according to the programme, impoverished undergraduates at Cambridge University. Finding themselves one day in London and without fare to return to school, the two decided to pull out their instruments and play for pennies - to be buskers in the true sense of the word.

Their repertoire at that early stage of the game was limited but the crowds were delighted. The idea worked, and worked so well, that very soon Ingram, a student of Russian and French, and Copely, who was studying music, were soon contemplating much improved prospects.

Their act is clever. Taking the world's most famous music as their territory - Beethoven's nine symphonies, some Bach concertos, Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture - as well as some very fine minor classics - the Buskers

Buskers Dag Ingram and Michael Copely share a moment after their performance with guild member Ruth Still.

"rearrange" the pieces to suit their own devices: Copely's numerous flutes and recorders and Ingram's $10 accordion. That way they can fit everything, say, Mozart ever wrote into 30 seconds. Or at least "the good bits." And play the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah on what looks like a hollowed out cow's horn. And include in their music, notes so high "that dogs are attracted." And discovered previously unknown Bach pieces (composed, as the droll Ingram explains, after a naughty weekend in Paris.)

The show works because Copely and Ingram, especially the former, are consummate musicians. Copely is marvellous with his flutes, at one point playing two at once with such precision and timing as to make the audience let off an audible gasp. Ingram also is good, though he most often plays straight man to Copely's outrageous musical puffer, arching his eyebrows at the flautist, affected by the sheer sublimeness of his music, drifts off into yet another swoon.

Interestingly, the Buskers have managed to give their show a very broad appeal. By turns they play seriously (how, you might ask, is it possible to be serious about any music when a glow-in-the-dark accordion is involved) and then careen off on some hilarious tangent that everyone can appreciate. Doubtless there were moments Friday night when only Copely and Ingram knew just which obscure composer was being satirized, but there were also times when audience laughter set the stage lights to rattling in their fixtures.

With luck, the Cambridge Buskers will stop by again in Haliburton County on their next Canadian tour.

Fatness is out.

Snow provides signal for sled dog racers

The first dusting of snow provides the signal the racers and their followers have been looking for since Labour Day. The snow is a sign the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge cannot be far off.

Indeed the premier sled dog racing event in Ontario is less than a month and a half away. That means mushers are working hard to bring their teams up to prime condition for the two days of racing January 10-11. Spectators and sled dog racing enthusiasts are marking the weekend on their calendars, if they haven't done so already, in anticipation of an exciting two days of sled dog racing in the great Canadian tradition.

The interest in this year's Minden Techni-Cal Challenge is particularly high.

Over the past two years, the four and eight dog races have attracted a large and loyal following. Spectators and mushers share the excitement of the start and finish of each race right on Minden's Main Street. Nearby, visitors can stroll through the pit area where teams are getting ready for their turn of relaxing after a strenuous run. The mushers and their assistants are happy to talk about their sport and the challenge of the demanding Minden course.

But what has grabbed mushers' attention in particular this year is the $5,000 purse. Race sponsor, Martin Feed Mills of Elmira, makers of Techni-Cal Dog Food and other quality nutrition preparations for dogs, has ensured the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge will rank among the top events of its kind in Canada.

The prize money will be divided between the eight and four dog classes with top award in the eight dog event being $1,000. First place finisher in the four dog race will receive $600. In each class, mushers and teams compete in two heats, covering distances of eight and four miles respectively, each day. The selection of winners is based on the best total time.

The division of the purse ensures that up to 20 teams will go home with a cash prize.

Over 30 entries
The Minden Techni-Cal

Challenge is an exciting event filled with colourful teams, excellent photographic opportunities and the thrill of racing. The Main Street start and finish ensures ample space for watching the mushers burst from the starting line as they head out on to the trail. Just minutes after the last team has departed, the weary, but nonetheless enthusiastic teams, begin returning, cheered to the finish line by the crowd. Best of all, for those who come to watch, there is no admission charge.

Be a part of a Canadian winter tradition this year. Take in the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge Saturday and Sunday, January 10 and 11.

Organizers need race volunteers

Minden area residents interested in being a part of the third annual sled dog derby are invited to attend a volunteer organizational meeting which has been scheduled for December 11.

At that meeting, there will be an opportunity to learn about the race, how it is organized and the need for assistance at various locations. Race co-ordinator Val Loughheed noted that the annual event is operated on a non-profit basis and so the assistance provided by volunteers is needed to ensure its success.

The meeting will be held at the Minden Fire Hall, Wednesday December 11, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Two more wins for Redmen

With two more wins under their belts, the HHSS Redmen Hockey team has established a commanding lead in the North Kawartha Boys High School Hockey League. The latest wins came last week when they defeated T.A. Stewart High School in Peterborough November 25 and then blanked Crestwood Collegiate in a game played at the Haliburton arena, Wednesday.

Indicative of the Redmen's balanced approach under their coach Walt McKechnie, the scoring Tuesday was shared by five players. Tran LaRue scored the only marker of the first period, connecting on a pass from Ted Paish and Mike MacNaull. That goal came at the 7:59 mark.

Jeff Popple scored the only Redmen goal of the second period, that coming at 5:21. The assist went to Mike Blake. The marker proved to be the go-ahead goal for the Redmen as the hosts had notched their only goal at 11:27.

The Redmen topped off the game with three more goals in the final frame. Ted Paish scored unassisted at the 6 minute mark, Ron Perrin from Jaro Cooper at 4:56 and Gord Wood from Drew Mitchell at 3:52.

The shut-out Wednesday evening saw the Redmen notch a single marker in each of the three frames. The first two goals came off the stick of Gord Wood. Scott

Russell assisted on both the goals with Drew Mitchell also assisting on the first. The opening goal came at the 12 minute mark of the first, with the second goal coming at 8:54 of the second period.

Mike MacNaull scored the third goal for the Redmen at 6:41 of the final frame. The assist went to Ted Paish.

The Redmen play host to G.A. Stewart High School tonight (December 3) at the Haliburton arena. Game time is 7:15. Next Tuesday they travel to Peterborough for a game against Kenner then play their first game in the Minden arena on December 10 against St. Pete's.

Lutterworth concerned about equipment

Lutterworth council has expressed concern about its lack of information on the condition of approximately $110,000 worth of the township's trail grooming equipment on loan to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association.

According to the loan agreement with the HCSA, the snowmobile club was to pay for the operation and maintenance of the equipment and to store it over the summer on the township lot. But at present, council learned at the November 20 meeting, it is not being stored in Lutterworth and the township - which pays for the insurance - has received only two reports on the state of the equipment since it was lent to the HCSA almost three years ago.

"Part of the problem is that there is no arrangement as to accountability," said Lutterworth Deputy Reeve Carol Puffer at the meeting. Puffer explained that the present loan agreement does not require the snowmobile club to provide the township with regular reports.

The grooming equipment - it includes a number of all-terrain vehicles and a Bombardier groomer - was bought around the end of 1984 and the beginning of 1985 with the help of a $90,000 grant from the government. Lutterworth's share was about $22,000.

Councillors claim they do not know where the machines are being stored during the summers.

Of the two equipment reports the township has been sent, the first, completed November 30, 1984, was received January 31, 1985. The second, completed December 31, 1985, was received January 31, 1986.

Council will discuss the problem with a representative from the snowmobile club at a future meeting.

Charge dismissed in collision

occurred on Highway 118 east of Carnarvon.

The bus sustained $5000 damage while there was $2000 in damages to the car.

The accident occurred near a curve where the line of sight was reduced.

Minor injuries

Minden area resident Gary Kenney, 40, suffered minor injuries following an accident November 28 on Highway 35 north of Minden. The former member of Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council was travelling south when his vehicle was in collision with a pick-up truck driven by Walter Ackerblade, 62, of Minden. The accident occurred at the intersection of the Highway and Jordan Drive.

Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Ackerblade has been charged with failing to yield the right of way.

Constable Bob Wood is the investigating officer.

Theft

Taken in the incident were two 12 gauge shot guns, two 20 gauge shot guns, two 410 gauge shot guns, one .22 calibre rifle, one 30-30 calibre rifle, shot gun shells, cigarettes and lighters. The value of the stolen merchandise was estimated at $2,153.

The investigating officer is Constable Ben Manuge.

Truck destroyed

A fire in a 1978 model pick-up truck November 29 destroyed the vehicle causing an estimated $28,000 damage, police report. The vehicle was being operated by Ted Jubb of Fenelon Falls when it stalled on Highway 121 west of Haliburton. The truck burst into flames as the driver attempted to restart it.

The incident was investigated by Constable Jim Solway.

Assault

A charge of aggravated assault has been laid against a Guilford Township man following an incident November 28 in Haliburton.

According to the police, Nathan Hie, 23 has been charged.

Following the incident, which occurred during the evening, 47 year old Edward Mitchell of Wilberforce was taken to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto for treatment of injuries.

Hie will appear in Provincial Court January 7.

The investigating officer is Constable Al Bibby.

RIDE

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation offers a program called RRAP, designed to help low income homeowners make improvements to their accommodation. This could be in the way of upgrading the house structure, electrical, heating or plumbing, overcrowding may also be considered.

Depending upon the household income and the continuous occupancy of the dwelling, for a period of five years, a portion of the debt could be forgiven. Loans are based on current interest rates and can be repaid over a period of up to 20 years.

Work cannot begin without first receiving loan approval. RRAP is now available for rental units and the disabled.

Dysart et al residents may contact the Haliburton County Information Centre 457-2733. Anson, Hindon and Minden call Bev Millar 286-1260, Lutterworth 286-1541, all other townships should contact Lorraine Cuffe at the Peterborough Canadian Mortgage and Housing Office 1-800-461-7698.

Canada - U.S. sign security agreement

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

The Secretary of State for External Affairs, Joe Clark and the U.S. Secretary of State, George P. Shultz, on November 21, signed an agreement providing for close co-operation between Canada and the United States in matters relating to aviation security.

The new agreement, signed at a ceremony in Ottawa at the conclusion of the regular quarterly bilateral meeting between the Minister and his U.S. counterpart, is based on the premise that the assurance of safety for civil aircraft, their passengers and crew, is a fundamental precondition for the operation of international air services. It commits the governments of Canada and the United States to provide information and all necessary mutual assistance to prevent unlawful acts which threaten aircraft, the safety of passengers and crew as well as airports and air navigation facilities.

Both countries acting in conformity with aviation security standards shall require that operators of aircraft and airports act in accordance with these provisions and agree that its operators may be required by the other contracting party to observe these standards. Both countries also agree to ensure that effective measures are taken within its territory to protect aircraft, inspect passengers and their carry-on items, and to carry out appropriate checks on crew, cargo (including baggage) and aircraft stores prior to and during boarding and loading.

The agreement also includes provisions whereby both countries agree to give mutual assistance to terminate threats to aviation security and to consult and resolve in an expedient manner any perceived departures from the provisions of the agreement. Failure to resolve such matters may result in the curtailment of air operations.

In signing the agreement, Canada and the United States are seeking to ensure the security of the world's most extensive and complex bilateral civil aviation relationship serving more than 13 million air travellers annually. At the same time, it is recognized that aviation security cannot be ensured and terrorism effectively counteracted by individual states alone, but only on the basis of co-operation and united action by the international community.

The Assembly of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), meeting in Montreal on October 1, 1986, unanimously adopted a Canadian proposal to develop a new international agreement on airport security.

This resolution, co-sponsored by over 30 countries representing all geographic regions and social economic systems, reflects a growing realization throughout the international community that united action is needed to close a gap in the existing ICAO framework concerning aviation security. The Hague, Montreal and Tokyo conventions clearly govern security threats to aircraft in flight, but do not adequately cover all terrorist threats or attacks at airports.

The comprehensive bilateral aviation security agreement signed November 21 between Canada and the United States not only serves to strengthen security measures between the two countries, but, hopefully may stand as a model for future bilateral agreements and complement Canada's multilateral initiative to ensure international aviation security within ICAO.

Canada and the U.S. strongly support multilateral efforts by ICAO to improve aviation security agreements with other countries.

Guild news

by Leo Dobrzensky

With Christmas fast approaching, a visit to the beautifully decorated Rails' End Gallery is a must. Sales of handcrafted items have been brisk and it would be wise to pay that visit soon, in order to avoid disappointment.

Volunteer sales personnel is still needed. Please enquire at the gallery for times when help is still required.

On December 13, from 11.30 to 3:00 the Guild Choir will entertain visitors at the Gallery with Christmas Carols. The group will also perform at the Minden Village Green on Friday, December 12.

In keeping with tradition, many guild groups are now having their annual Christmas parties. The rug hookers will meet at Bonnie View Inn on December 15 for lunch to which all former members are invited. The weavers' pot luck supper takes place on Monday, December 8 at Marion Langdon's. The knitters and spinners are holding a pot luck lunch at Hilda Sealey's on Tuesday, December 2.

***

The potters' second meeting at Doreen Elstone's was well attended and another get together, is planned for February. Details will be provided at a later date. On December 8 Barbara Peel is starting another five week course for a mixed group of beginners and advanced potters. Classes are on Monday evenings, from 7-9 at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Haliburton.

The Guild dance on Saturday evening was a great success. All 250 tickets were sold and a few disappointed latecomers had to be turned away. Every segment of the community supported this event and a good time was had by young and old.

Haliburton's own "Ugly Rumour" band played some lively tunes and arrangements have already been made to have them return for another dance next November. Chairperson Ginny Muenzel hereby extends a special thank-you to Reta Barry for helping with the sale of tickets and to Mike Easton and Chuck O'Neill for the donation of snacks for the evening.

The chairperson herself, as well as members of her family, should receive a special thank you from all of us for their untiring efforts on behalf of the Guild dance.

Mary Hartins, the chairperson of the Gallery committee, organized the farewell party for Chris Lynd at the Rails' End

Gallery, which was well attended by the curator's many friends who came to say goodbye and wish her well. Thanks were expressed to Dr. Harry Good who donated the wine and finger foods and to Peter Hoad who presented Chris with one of his amusing cartoons, depicting the ups and downs of gallery life.

When presenting the gift, a handcrafted silver pendant in the form of an apple, Guild president Joan Hoad thanked the outgoing curator for her many years of hard work. She mentioned specifically the attractive shows which Chris had brought to the Gallery for the pleasure of all.

Chris Lynd expressed her enjoyment of the position over the years and assured members that the Gallery was now well regarded in the community and had a good future ahead.

Guild members and friends of Chris Lynd will miss the popular curator and wish her good luck.

Special care needed when child is ill

by Faith Aggett

In the past week I have heard of a number of children who have been ill with a cold, cough, flu or an ear infection. Those of us able to stay home with our sick child take it in our stride, but what about the parent who can't take time off work? Who will care for their ill child?

A good child care programme requires a medical form be completed by a physician at the time of registration. He will confirm that their immunization record is up to date and that the general health of the child is good, or, if not, recommendations in improving good health. Physicians are also advising that it would be added protection for your child to have haemophilus influenzae type B vaccine especially if they are to participate in a child care programme. It is felt this inoculation will shortly be part of the regular immunization programme since every year young children do develop serious infections that could lead to more serious problems. For more information about this vaccine contact your doctor.

The home provider must make an individual choice as to whether she can care for an ill child and still carry on a programme with the other children in her care. It would depend on the structure of her house and ease of supervision, the nature of the illness and how the other parents felt. At a day care centre there is no provision for sick children. Other arrangements would have to be made.

Ideally, if the working parent called the day care supervisor in the morning informing her that they need care for an ill child, alternate back up care could be arranged. This designated person would be able to care for that one ill child in her own home and give individual comfort. In Minden we have not yet realized the ideal.

We are in need of individuals who would respond to this need. These people would be valuable members of the system. Frequent visits to the day care homes would help in getting to know the children and for them to become familiar with the back up care giver. Then a visit to their home would be less stressful and more of a special occasion.

The policy of administering medication is fairly standard in all child care systems. None will be given without prior written authorization by the parent/guardian. Written instructions stating amount, times and type avoid misunderstanding by the caregiver. All medication must come in the original container with the child's name on it.

In conclusion, I would advise all parents to get all possible protection through immunization for their children and be aware of the policies of your child care programme on illness. Any persons interested in being an emergency back-up for a child care system please contact me at 286-1831.

Yvonne Guida flew to New York to visit her youngest son and his wife and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Guida and Kimberly. Mr. Guida has just been appointed a Corporate Account Executive with Lufthansa. While in New York Yvonne visited many old friends and attended the production of Romeo and Juliette, conducted by Placido Domingo. After the performance at Lincoln Centre, she visited the tenor backstage and presented him with a portrait. The following evening there was a production of Tosca. From there, she flew to Washington D.C., for production of Il Trovatore, a visit to Annapolis, a performance of Cellist Rostropovich and the world premiere of Gian Carlo's opera Goya, written for and starring the incomparable Placido Domingo, attended by royalty, senators and many celebrities, following which was a black tie dinner dance with the tenor in attendance. Washington is a fascinating city, especially at night with its blaze of lights illuminating all the wonderful works of art and history, and of course the Kennedy Centre for the Performing Arts. From there she travelled to St. Louis to visit her second oldest son and his wife and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James Guida and granddaughter Laura. She flew home in a snowstorm and the plane had to make three stops along the way, but it was a wonderful holiday, one she will not soon forget. While in Toronto she attended the movie Mission, starring Robert De Niro, an extremely powerful movie based on history of the struggle between Spain and Portugal. She highly recommends it.

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Q: How do you catch a squirrel?

A: Climb a tree and act like a nut.

Q: What's worse than a giraffe with a sore throat?

A: A centipede with a sore foot.

Q: Why do people avoid Count Dracula?

A: Because he's a pain in the neck.

Q: Why did the monster chase its tail?

A: It was trying to make both ends meet.

Lest We Forget - the lives sacrificed for the cause of Freedom, Christianity and Democracy - - - from Remembrance Day.

The first week of this month found a new executive voted in to serve another term for our Resident's Social Club. They are: Lillian Davidson president, Jean Marsh vice president, Eleanor Ferris secretary and Corinne Arsenault treasurer. Committees have been chosen to assist the president. Many thanks go out to the retiring executive and committees for all the efforts put forward to make our stay here as friendly as possible.

Following our meeting, we joined Lillian and George Davidson in celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. A beautiful anniversary plate and a lovely decorated cake was presented to them from the residents, also plaques from Staannworth Court directors and residents, the County and personal congratulations from MPP John Eakins and MP Bill Scott.

Corinne Arsenault did much to make this occasion a memorable one for these folks. We wish them many more years together. Their family helped George and Lillian enjoy this event by celebrating with them and their friends in the lounge room following Saturday.

Henry and Vera Howe enjoyed a visit with their son Joe and his wife Fern in Markham.

Len and Mabel Trodd, accompanied by Kathleen Thorn, visited relatives in Kingston.

Florence Lindsay spent a few days with her family in Toronto.

Marie Forbes Gates has left us to be with her parents in Toronto. She leaves with feelings of deep gratitude for the kindnesses shown her by our residents during the illness and death of Fred.

Margaret Horsley recently enjoyed a trip to Toronto with her son Garth and his wife Shirley, to visit with daughter and sister Glenda Campbell. Glenda was one of a delegation chosen to represent Lloydminster (Sask. & Alta.) as they bid against the East to be hosts for the 1988 Canadian Softball championships. This is also the year of the Olympics in Calgary, Alberta.

Many happy returns of the day go out to Ivy Angliss. May you enjoy many more birthdays Ivy.

We were recently entertained by Mr. Kennedy who played many familiar selections for us on our piano. We thoroughly enjoyed the singalong and hope to see Mr. Kennedy and his wife again soon.

Corinne and Hector Arsenault recently enjoyed a visit to Kingston to attend the christening of their granddaughter.

We are very encouraged to hear that our sick folks are showing improvement after their operations. Our get-well wishes go out to Carrie Vasey in St. John's Rehabilitating Centre in Toronto, George Davidson in Northwestern Hospital Toronto and Jean Cowan in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. Edna Smith is home again from hospital and recuperating.

Before we meet again we will all be celebrating Christmas:

"Peace on Earth and Goodwill to Men is still a promise that men can claim."

May you all have a blessed Christmas.

M.H.

November as Novembers go was not a bad month, only .9 degrees C cooler than last November. Snowfall was the same for both years. Rainfall was much heavier last November. Most small ponds etc. were frozen over by November 14th. There were no bad wind storms this November, there is usually at least one.

Trivia: November 3, 1961 the temperature rose to 23.3 degrees C at Ottawa, making it the warmest November day on record. It was same high in Minden (74 degrees F).

In 1742 Anders Celsius published his ideas of temperature scale - zero for the boiling point of water, 100 degrees for the melting point of ice. When people reacted against this idea the scale was reversed - seems there's still problems attached to his name.
